Dachser expands in Latin America and South-East Asia

Logistics provider established new joint ventures in Chile and Thailand

Kempton/Santiago de Chile/Bangkok. January 2009. In January, two new joint ventures were established by the internationally operating logistics service provider Dachser as part of the international expansion of its intercontinental network.

Dachser established a 50:50 joint venture in Chile with Gesto-Log, a merger with the renowned local freight carrier Logística Industrial S.A. and the experienced logistician Rolf Gremler. The company will be called "Dachser Chile S.A.". The objective is to establish Dachser's air and sea-logistics operations in this highly developed South and Latin American market. Simultaneously, the export and import business to and from USA, Europe, Asia and Latin America will be strengthened. Additional offices are planned. Dachser Chile S.A. will be conjointly managed by Rolf Gremler, Dario Poblete and Martin Reichner.

Thomas Reuter, Managing Director of Dachser Air & Sea Logistics says: "Chile offers perfect economic conditions, is connected on a global scale and invests massively in its traffic infrastructure. With our intercontinental services we will provide our customers attractive logistics solutions in and for Latin America". Dachser manages its own subsidiaries in the Americas, which are located in the USA, Mexico, Brazil and Chile.

Dachser AFL Thailand Ltd.

In January, the logistics service provider announced the launch of its activities in Thailand. Dachser is represented by the Indian Joint Venture AFL Dachser Pvt. Ltd. and is called Dachser AFL Thailand Ltd.

The joint venture is seated in Bangkok. AFL Dachser holds 90 percent of the shares. The rest is held by the local management. Thailand's econ-
